

Experience Magical Moments

with authentic Tasmanian country living at Rathmore House

WORDS BY | Cally Lyons, Rathmore House Owner

Passion, energy, positivity, vision and grit have shaped my fascinating lifetime of successful business ventures including travel consultancy, corporate catering, events and hosting accommodation for 25 years.

It was December 2015 when we first inspected Rathmore. It was the only property we looked at, but we fell in love with it, as we are confident you will too.

While we have been unable to host guests for a little while now, we have used the time wisely and made some upgrades to our offering. With restrictions easing and guests returning to Rathmore, I must say we are very excited, so excited in fact that we are offering readers of this Women's Network Australia Magazine our Magical Moments Exclusive!

Rathmore is located in Tasmania's Derwent Valley region, which stretches from Granton to Mt. Field, Lake St. Clair and Lake Pedder. A visit here is the perfect opportunity to avoid crowded situations and give in to your craving for wide open spaces and beautiful nature.

With plenty of available activities both on the property and nearby, including The Agrarian Kitchen – one of the best cooking schools in Australia – you certainly won't be bored. You can even visit the nearby Nant Distillery, a historic watermill and perfect location for a whisky tasting.

No matter what your interests may be, we have something to keep you entertained. And if curling up in front of the fire and reading a book is really what you're looking for, we can help with that as well! ■
